BIG BEAR BESS BROUGHT LOW

President Shot Bruin Through Heart, He Did AND BESSIE TOPPLED OVER

Fine Specimen of the Bruin Family—Felt Will Adorn White House—President's Hunt in Louisiana Canoebrake Successful.

Stamboul, La., Oct. 19.—At last the president's hunt in the Louisiana canebrakes has been rewarded. He has killed a bear. The killing occurred late Thursday afternoon, and was the culmination of a four-hour chase which the president made through the thicket, following the trail as indicated by the howling of the dogs. The bear is a fine specimen of the bruin family, and weighs not far from 400 pounds. It was brought back to camp that night and dressed, and now hangs in the "executive" tent, where it is exhibited to all the camp followers. The news of the successful hunt was brought into Stamboul from the camp by one of the negro carriers, who had been dispatched with the message at midnight but did not reach here until late yesterday morning.

When the hunt was resumed Thursday morning, there was determination on the part of Ben Lilley to round up bear for the president to shoot at, as he feared with the time for the president's stay here fast drawing to a close that he would not be successful.

Setting the best of old dogs and also taking with him the seven trained hounds which the Osborn brothers took to the camp the day before, he started out in the vicinity of the place where the bear which swam the lake a few days ago came out of the water. Some time after noon the dogs picked up a trail, and the president, who was following close behind Ben Lilley, through the thicket of the canebrake, left his horse behind and struck out on foot.

At times the chase was so dense that he was forced to stop and cut his way through, but managed to keep within hearing distance of the hounds all the way. Several times he was close upon the heels of the dogs and caught sight of his game, but did not have an opportunity to shoot.

Once the dogs were so close that he feared to shoot lest some of the prize hounds of the Osborn pack should fall by the shot. Never once, according to Ben Lilley, who was beside the president all the time, did he falter or fall back in the four hours' chase, although it seemed occasionally that the bear, which was fighting its way through the dense thicket, would finally succeed in making its escape. Just before nightfall the chase led to a small opening in the canebrake, and when the president was within range, a distance of sixty or seventy yards, he lost no time in raising his rifle to his shoulder and just as the bear was again about to plunge into the brake he fired.

The bullet went true to its mark, the bear falling almost in its tracks with a bullet through the heart. Ben Lilley says it was as good a shot under the circumstances as he could have made. He was forced to stop and cut his way through, but managed to keep within hearing distance of the hounds all the way. Several times he was close upon the heels of the dogs and caught sight of his game, but did not have an opportunity to shoot.

Fatal Family Row.

Son and Son-in-Law Stabbed—Father Arrested.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 19.—Robert H. Edwards is under arrest, charged with attacking his 17-year-old son, Raymond, and his son-in-law, Joseph Uzzolino, with a knife. Both men are so seriously injured that their recovery is doubtful. Edwards, it is alleged, used the knife when his son and son-in-law interfered in a quarrel between him and his wife. The fight occurred in the Edwards flat in North Sixth street early yesterday morning.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. E. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and to have published broadcast and open to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed all猜疑 from among secret nostrums of doubtful merit, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the closest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients contained in it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter to Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral poisons or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women, are the same as those contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for men.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is an efficient remedy for regulating all the woman's functions, correcting displacements, and promoting, invigorating and restoring, in overcoming painful periods, turning up the nervous system, and restoring the general health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

The Times' Daily Short Story.

A Singular Duel.

(Original.)

Some years ago when I was in New Orleans in order to kill time I dropped into a fencing academy opposite the hotel where I stopped. I am fond of all the arts of self defense and would sit by the hour during the afternoon and evening watching the fencing master give instruction. At the end of each lesson he would send his pupils' foil spinning high in the air, thus intimating that the lesson was finished.

One evening, while in his academy, as I was about leaving he asked me if I would like to see a spirited contest with the foils between two experts. When I said I would he told me to be on hand at 7 in the morning, giving as a reason for the early hour that the contestants did not care to fence before a crowd. When I entered the hall a little before the hour appointed I saw the principals emerge from a dressing room attired in fencing costume and each wearing a wire mask. The fencing master turned to me and said:

"In contests between strong men sometimes the button will be broken off one of the foils. I wish you to look at these weapons that you may be a witness that they are in good condition at the start."

I examined the foils and found them perfect. He handed them to the principals, and the contest began. I confess I was disappointed. Neither seemed to take much interest in the struggle, and it was an indifferent performance. I wondered why I had been invited to witness it. Meanwhile the fencing master went to another part of the room, where suddenly he dropped something which made a clatter, and I turned my eyes in his direction. When I turned them back to the fencers I saw that they had suspended the contest. One of them was standing in position; the other was just stepping into position. Somehow I got the idea that they had both stepped away from their places.

When the fencing recommenced each man threw himself into his work as if his life depended upon his efforts. Each was supremely careful of his guard and each watchful for some opening through which he might pierce his adversary. It was not long before I saw blood oozing from the sword arm of one of the fencers. I looked at the fencing master, supposing he had felled a bull. Certainly, as he had felled a bull, a button had been broken off a foil. He could not but see the blood, but he paid no attention to it. Presently more blood appeared, this time from the shoulder of the other fencer, and the two were bleeding profusely.

Whatever had been the intent at the beginning, I was sure that now the two were fighting for their lives. They were both skilled with the foil, and the duel, as promised, had become

RUSH TO SELL WHEAT.

Canadian Farmers Eager to Get $1.14 Price Per Bushel.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 19.—The high price of wheat and oats has caused an unprecedented rush to market by farmers all over the Canadian Northwest. Every available ear of the Canadian Pacific, Northwestern Pacific and Hill lines is being moved into service. More crop has been moved so far than was moved all last winter of last year and all the elevators are running night and day to accommodate the rush of business. The latest Toronto quotation of $1.14 for wheat gave the final impetus to the rush.

PRESIDENT KRUGER'S GRAVE IS DESECRATED.

Marble Bust Torn from the Base and Badly Chipped.

Johannesburg, Transvaal, Oct. 19.—A painful sensation has been caused by the discovery that the grave of President Kruger, who died in Switzerland on July 14, 1904, and whose body was interred in the cemetery at Pretoria, has been desecrated. The marble bust of the ex-president has been torn from its base and badly chipped. Other graves in the vicinity, including that of Kruger's grandchild, were also slightly damaged. The desecration is believed to be the work of thieves, who expected that a reward would be offered for the bust, but which they found too heavy to carry off.

CARNEGIE LOOKS FOR GOOD FROM FINANCIAL UNREST.

But He Believes Existing Conditions Will Continue Some Time.

Queenstown, Oct. 19.—Andrew Carnegie in an interview yesterday on board the White Star liner Baltic, on which he is a passenger bound for New York, said the financial uneasiness in the United States was likely to last for some time, and probably would extend to England, but ultimately it would be productive of good. Mr. Carnegie warmly greeted Sir Antony P. Macdonnell, chief secretary for Ireland, whom he met as a fellow passenger. Sir Antony will remain three weeks in the United States and Canada.

For a Speedy Deliverance.

A Kentucky Congressman tells an interesting tale of the execution of a noted desperado in that state some years ago. Just before the sheriff adjourned the noose he asked the usual question, whether the man had anything to say.

"No, I think not," began the convicted one, when he was interrupted by a cheerful voice shouting:

"Say, Bill, if you ain't got anything special to say would you mind giving me fifteen minutes of your time just to let these good people know that I am a candidate for their suffrages and?"

"Hold on there," shouted the sheriff: "who's that?"

"John Blank," volunteered some one, naming a rising young politician, who has since represented his state for a number of years in the House of Representatives at Washington.

"Who did he say it was?" whispered the condemned to the sheriff.

"They say it's John Blank."

"I thought I recognized John's voice," the desperado calmly remarked. "Well, he can have my time—all of it. But go ahead and hang me first and let him talk afterward."—The Bits.

COLLEGE MAN IN "AT YALE"

Manliness The Chief Characteristic "at Yale."

The chief characteristic of Jules Murray's college play "At Yale" is manliness. Manliness shows itself at the very outset when the boys are at work over their Greek. It is even more forcibly shown when the contest between Dick Seely and Dave Hurly is first exposed, and as the plot unfolds itself more and more, as Jimmy insists on paying back the quarter he hadn't fairly earned, as Dick Seely shoulders the wrong of another and fights his battle alone, as pretty Dorothy Randall urges her lover on to still greater heroism and as the boys one and all show their courage in the face of the greatest temptation and despair, this one great theme is blazoned wider and wider and made to glow brighter and brighter up to the very end, where the villain is bidden to go with no punishment except that of his own heart's making.

These college boys are a manly crowd and they follow a manly leader. The main thought in the play is to do the manly thing. It is an uplift instead of a down-pull. It leaves a good wholesome, clear taste in the mouth. It is a power for good and not of evil. It exercises a potent and profound influence on the right side of the ledger of right living and pure thinking. It gives tone to the stage and leaves a trail of earnest endeavor to emulate the struggles and the victories of the manly heroes and heroines shown behind the footlights. It breeds Manliness in every youth and man that sees it.
